

Philadelphia Works Welcomes Camille A. Duchaussée to its Board of Directors

Philadelphia Works, the designated Workforce Development Board (WDB) for the City of Philadelphia, has a Board of Directors that serves as an advisory, planning, and policy board under the guidelines of the federal Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA). In addition, the Board of Directors serves as the governing body of the 501(c)(3).

The membership of the Board is composed of business, education, labor, community, and government leaders. Members are appointed by the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia, and membership is guided by WIOA. The Board Chair must be a business representative, and the Board must have a majority of business/private sector members. This ensures that the business community is the leading voice in our local workforce system.

Camille
Duchaussée

Chief Administrative Officer,
City of Philadelphia

Camille A. Duchaussée is the Chief Administrative Officer (CAO) for the City of Philadelphia, leading efforts to modernize government operations, embedding the City's workforce development system across enterprise strategies, improving service delivery, and strengthening workplace culture for the City's nearly 30,000 employees. As CAO, she oversees critical administrative functions including procurement, human resources, innovation and technology, City records, and process improvement.

Camille brings extensive experience in labor relations, compliance, and workforce development to her role. Prior to serving as CAO, she served as Deputy Director of the City of Philadelphia Department of Labor, where she oversaw Equal Employment Opportunity policy development and administration, labor relations and employee relations training, EEO investigations, grievance hearings, and labor negotiations.

Before joining the City of Philadelphia, Camille enjoyed a distinguished 28-year career as a senior human resources executive and administrator within the Program Review Branch of the U.S. Department of Justice's Federal Bureau of Prisons, retiring from federal service in February 2018. Using her expertise in employment law and organizational leadership, she is committed to fostering a modern, effective, and equitable government, driven by a lifelong dedication to public service and improving the lives of the employees and residents she serves.

Philadelphia Works, Inc., the city's workforce development board, is a non-profit, quasi-public organization serving employers and connecting career seekers to employment and training opportunities. We invest public resources in a variety of workforce solutions that drive economic growth, influence public workforce policies, and optimize funding and resources to build a skilled and thriving workforce.
